Politics: Sixth Form Opinions

'I enjoy the debates we have in class and learning how the government works.'

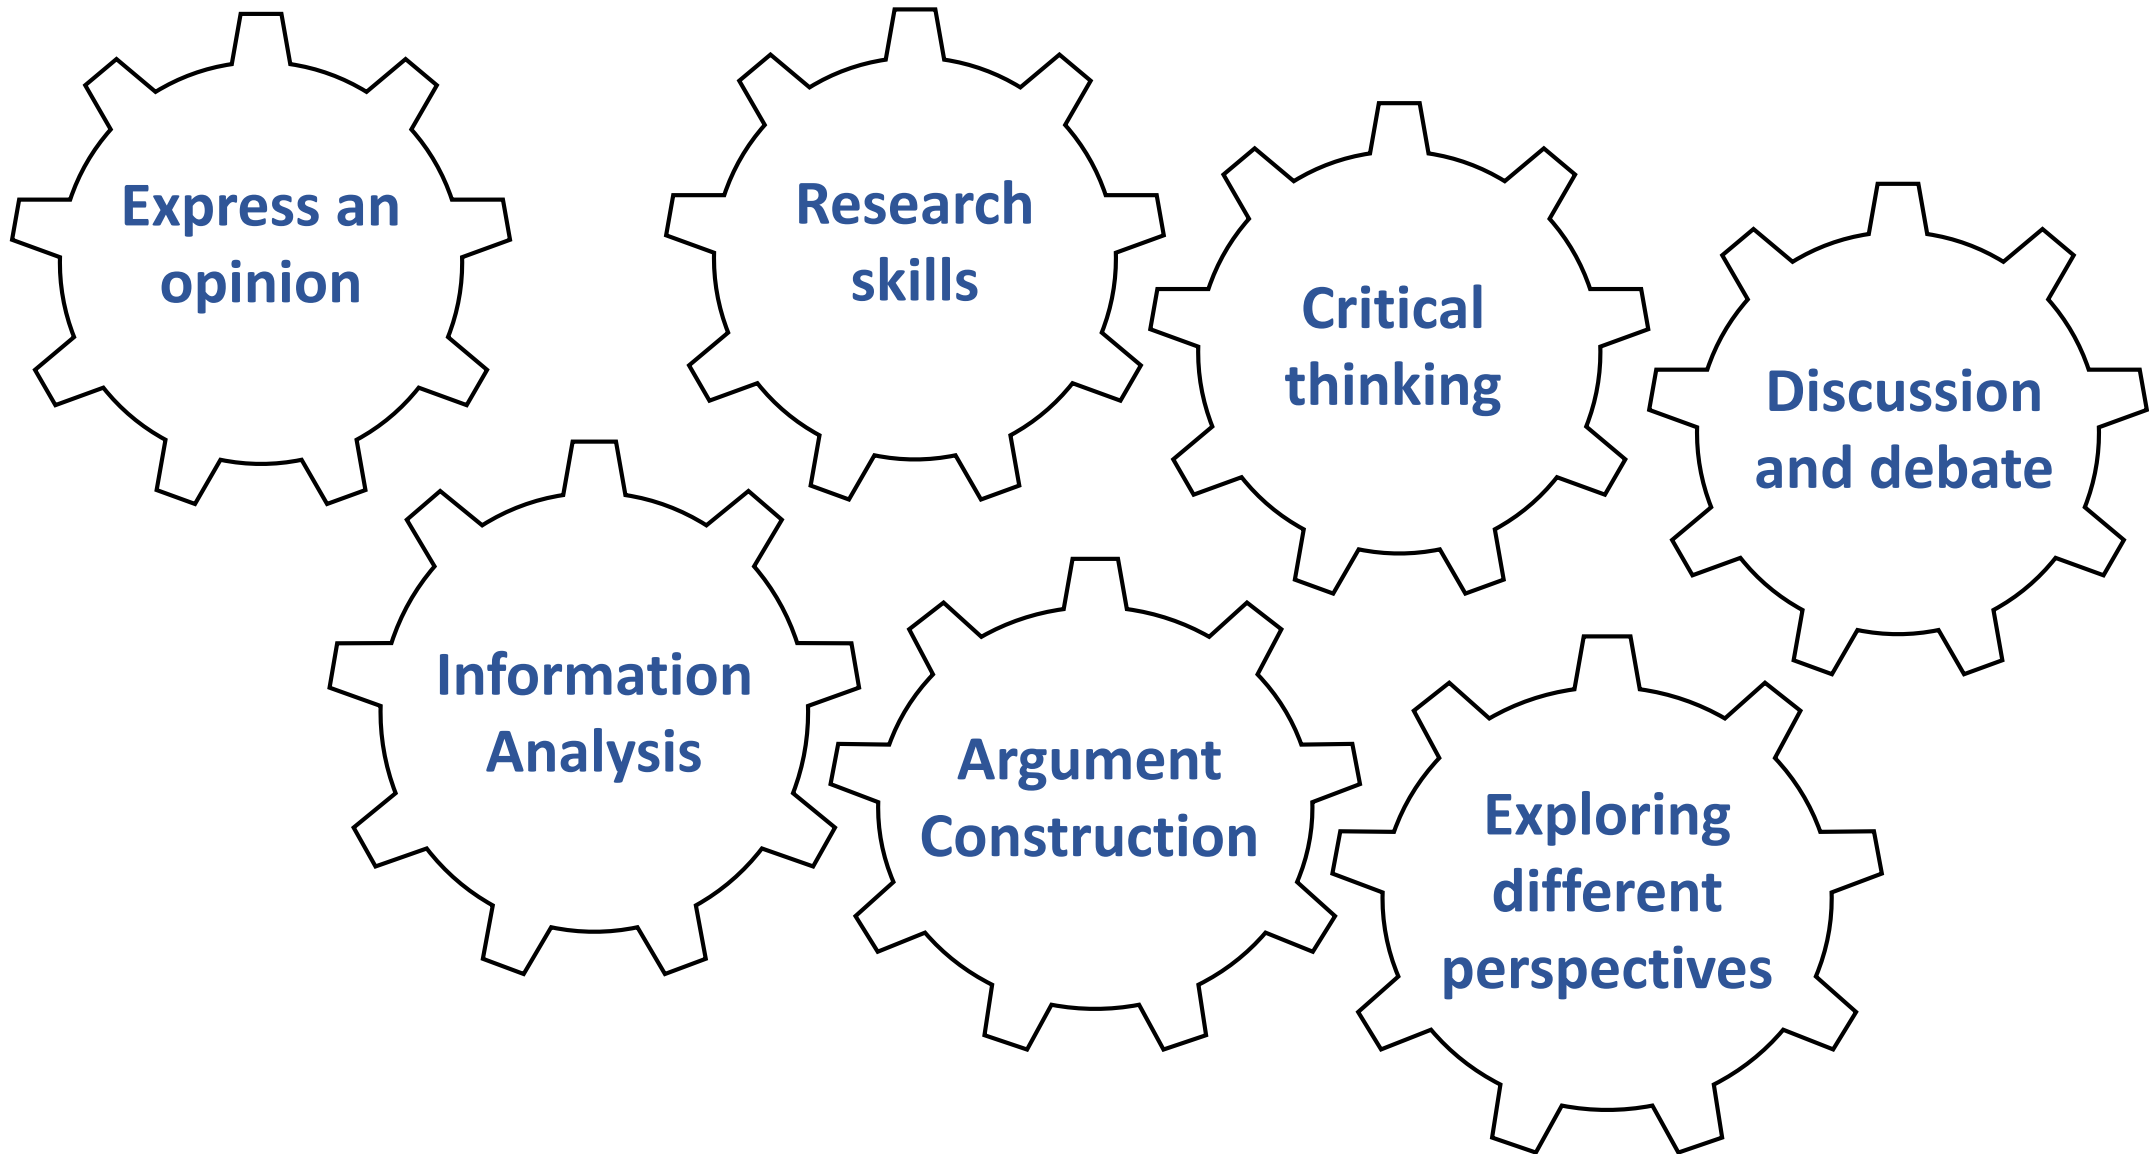

'Politics is so relevant to everyone and you learn about current affairs all over the world'.

'The best part about the debates is that they allow you to rationalise what your thoughts are, the counter arguments and whether or not you want to change your mind'.

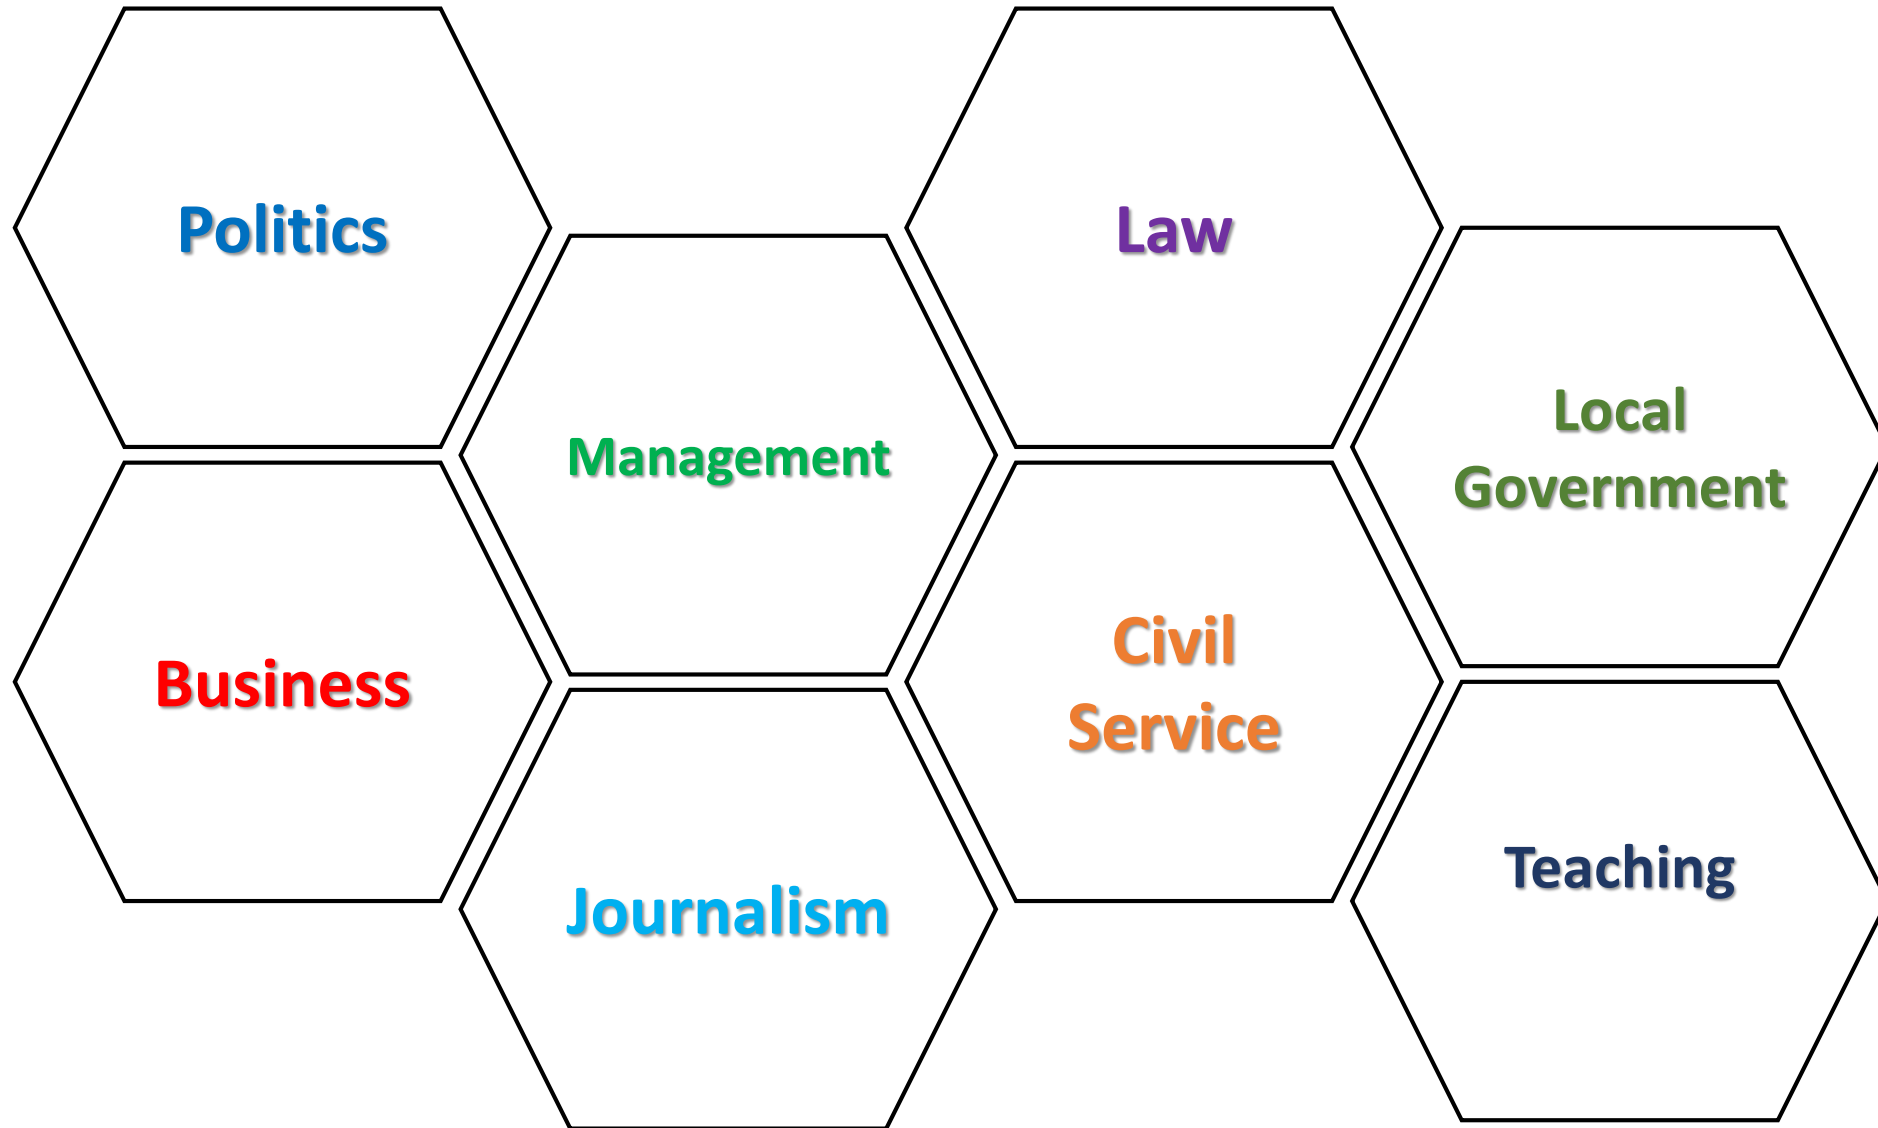

'Global politics was an area I knew very little about and enjoyed discovering; from theories of international relations to modern case studies, and incredibly topical debates such as the environment and human rights protection'.

Learning Outside of the Classroom

There is wealth of opportunities afforded to Politics students. These include:

- Meeting with the local MP and Council
- Visit to London including Westminster/ Parliament and the Courts of Justice/ Supreme Court
- Attendance to the annual Politics Conference for students – an opportunity to meet key politicians
